

High Court OKs Suit Against Desert College

Hearing Ordered In Hank Gogerty Taxpayer's Suit

PALM DESERT — The state Supreme Court Tuesday affirmed the right of hotelman H. L. Gogerty to bring suit against construction of the College of the Desert here.

Court Rule Sought in Annexation

Two Desert Water Agencies Tangle On District Lines

A year-long dispute between the Desert Hot Springs County Water District and the Coachella Valley County Water District over the question of who can annex what in the area of common boundary between them, appears headed for court.

Directors of the CVCWD Tuesday received from the DHS district formal notice that it has applied to the attorney general's office for permission to sue the neighboring district, a clearance that must be obtained when public agencies are involved.

Atty. Earl Redwine, counsel for the CVCWD, reported to the district board that he had not opposed the request of the DHS board for the right to sue since he said, he felt that consent is almost routinely granted in such cases and that opposition probably would have been futile.

Resistance Promised

"We shall resist the action in court with all our strength, and shall carry the case to the supreme court (of California) for a final decision if necessary," Redwine declared.

The controversy arose after the Coachella board, in annexing lands and well sites it acquired through purchase of the Rancho Ramon water company which it now operates, took in lands then within the boundaries of the DHS district.

Involved in the up-coming litigation is what has become known as "The Hidden Valley" decision, of the California appellate court. This case involved the attempted annexation of lands of one district by another in Ventura county. Redwine said the decision is somewhat in doubt since it was not carried to the "court of last resort," the California Supreme Court.

Defense Authorized

The attorney said the decision "affects the future of a lot of water districts in California." He left no doubt that he will appreciate a supreme court ruling to clarify the situation.

In another county water district problem — that of one involving the Downey County Water District which now has been almost wholly swallowed up by the city of Downey — the directors voiced an interest but declined to contribute to a fund being sought by the beleaguered district to fight off the municipal encroachment.

Redwine was authorized to intervene in the forthcoming litigation in any capacity he deems best, probably in the role of amicus curiae — friend of the court. The district's directors said they feared that any grant of funds to another district would be both illegal and, even if found to be legal, would be setting a dangerous precedent.

The high court's ruling climaxed approximately 30 months of efforts by Gogerty to get a Riverside County Superior Court hearing on a taxpayer's suit against construction of the school next to his Desert Air Park.

The Supreme Court order reversed a dismissal of the suit by Riverside County Superior Court Judge John Neblett.

Reasoning of the Supreme Court included denial that Gogerty's dispute was a moot argument because nine buildings on the site are nearing completion. The high court observed that the college board had known since October, 1959, that the court action was pending.

$3 Million Spent

The college board, headed by Indian rancher Donald Mitchell, has proceeded with construction in the belief that court action could not reasonably deny the college board the right to construct and operate the school on the site, Dr. Roy C. McCall, College president, said.

A total of $3.75 million in contracts for construction, site preparation and landscaping work has been let for the 160-acre site purchased by the board for $608,000 in 1958, McCall recalled.

"The board and County Counsel Sullivan had foreseen the possibility of this action, but it resulted in no change in plans," Dr. McCall said. He emphasized that the board is confident it is "fully prepared against the success" of the Gogerty suit. He cited a study by a citizen's committee — called after purchase of the site — and a study of the Ebasco Engineering Co. safety report on the site, and termed the board action "far from impudent."

Injunction Sought

Gogerty, who made no statement today, has sought an injunction against construction of the school next to his Desert Air Park and hotel, which have been in operation since 1946.

Gogerty's pleas have charged that the college board had acted fraudulently by disregarding reports of the state department of Education, Federal Aviation Agency, and the California Aeronautics Commission in recommending against use of the site for the college.

The board was required to wait 30 days after the CAA report before taking action to proceed on the site. Gogerty has emphasized that the campus and building sites are directly under the Desert Air Park landing and take off flight patterns.

County Counsel Sullivan — in Indian Superior Court this morning representing the Palm Springs Unified School District in condemnation proceedings for a proposed junior high school site — was unavailable for comment on the Supreme Court ruling which revived the Gogerty action.

Christopher To Meet All

San Francisco's Mayor George Christopher will meet all residents wishing to greet him in advance of the dinner program Saturday night at the Shadow Mountain Club in Palm Desert, it was announced today.

Edgar L. McCoubrey, Christopher's County chairman, said the reception arrangements were made because of the large number of desert residents who were committed to other events scheduled Saturday evening.

Countdown Decision Tonight

Concern Over Carpenter Shot Launch Situation

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — Launch crews today successfully completed the first phase of the split countdown for astronaut M. Scott Carpenter's scheduled orbital flight Thursday and officials said the crucial "go" of "no go" decision would be made this evening.

If scientists decide to proceed, the countdown will be resumed at 9:30 p.m. PDT.

A spokesman indicated that everything checked out perfect in the space vehicle in the first phase of the countdown, but launch conditions still were causing concern. At a weather briefing this morning top officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said that smoke from nearby forest and swamp fires "was thicker than we had expected" at the launch area today.

"A large forest fire across the Indian River from Cape Canaveral is almost directly upstream of the predicted wind" for the day of the shot, meaning the smoke will be blown directly toward Carpenter's launching pad, a spokesman said.

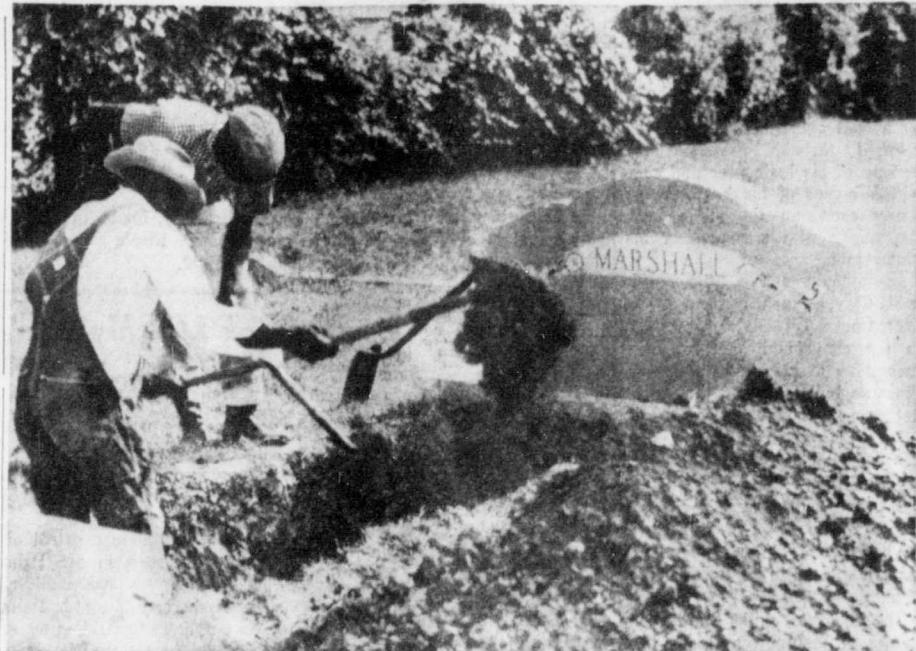

Today the pad could not be seen from the beach vantage points where it is normally easily visible. Despite forecasts of only three-mile visibility at low altitudes, space agency officials said the smoke haze would probably not interfere with the high altitude tracking cameras and that even with today's smoke blanket, the shot probably could have gone.

"We still have at least a 60-40 chance of getting the flight off Thursday," one official said. The launching is scheduled between 5 a.m. and 10:30 a.m. PDT.

Desert Inn Plan Worked by City

Application for the $10 million Desert Inn Hotel was in preparation in the city planning department this morning, Richard Coleman, planning director, reported.

Fred Wagner, Charles Luckman and Associates, planning research director, and Richard Mitcham, project architect for the sought eight-story modernistic hotel complex, worked over final legal descriptions and other supporting documents before noon. The formal filing might be completed today, Coleman said.

Marshall, 52, was taken from a sealed vault at a small cemetery in Franklin, Texas, for further investigation into what had been officially reported as a suicide death of the Agriculture Department official who was checking into the business deals of farm financier Billie Sol Estes. Palm Springs Murder in Estes Case Indicated

FRANKLIN, Tex. (UPI)—A preliminary report by a pathologist indicated today that Henry H. Marshall, 52, the agriculture official who first began checking farm financier Billie Sol Estes' business deals, was murdered.

Dr. Joseph Jachimczyk, the pathologist who is directing the autopsy on Marshall's body, said it appears he was shot once in the back and four times from the front.

Manley Jones, a funeral director who had suspected murder instead of the official verdict of suicide when Marshall was found dead in a field last June 3, said there was evidence of other injuries.

"There were indications that there had been quite a struggle," Jones said. "This had not been brought to light. There were wounds like blows from something... there were indications of body and facial lesions."

"There is no doubt in my mind that Henry Marshall was murdered."

Manley Jones, a funeral director who had suspected murder instead of the official verdict of suicide when Marshall was found dead in a field last June 3, said there was evidence of other injuries.

The autopsy was conducted Tuesday to help a grand jury investigating the case to "clear the air" and find any connection, if there is any, with Estes.

In Washington, Sen. John McClelland, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate investigations subcommittee which is now inquiring into the Estes case, said he was "not at all surprised."

A new format with new head type makes its debut in the woman's pages of The Desert Sun today. Technically named Bodoni, it's another investment of The Desert Sun, designed to give you an ever improving newspaper with quality and coverage second to none.

In laymen's language, the new type is a light serif type, which means it has curls and accents, as opposed to the head type, Vogue, which is the straight line Gothic appearing in the other pages of the Sun.

The focal point of the department investigation was Marshall's connection with Estes," the official said today. "The department had full jurisdiction to investigate because Marshall was one of our employees. The investigators were told to stop their inquiry when they could get no cooperation from the sheriff and justice of the peace in Texas, who ruled the death a suicide. The thinking was, apparently, the department should not get into a controversy with local officials."

Berkey pointed to the importance of a Supervisor from this District having the support and respect of other members of the Board.

L. A. Bound 707 Plummets from Violent Storm

CENTERVILLE, Iowa (UPI) — A continental Airlines jet airliner crashed and disintegrated during a violent electrical storm Tuesday night. All 45 persons aboard were killed.

Plane Pilot A Frequent Visitor Here

Capt. Fred R. Gray, pilot of the Continental Airlines jetliner that crashed Tuesday night in Iowa, was a frequent visitor to the desert area and recently was considering establishing a home here. Friends report Gray, 40, and his wife, Darlene, frequently flew here from Pacific Palisades in their own small airplane and had been shopping for a home in Palm City.

DENVER (UPI)—The crew of the Continental Airlines jet which crashed in Iowa Tuesday night was based in Los Angeles.

The passenger list, with home towns known in nearly all cases, included only one person from the Far West. He was identified as James Webb, Anaheim, Calif.

Crew members, all from California, were: Mary R. McGrath, 20, hostess, El Segundo; David E. Olssen, 40, director of passenger services, El Segundo; Marilyn L. Bloomquist, 24, hostess, El Segundo; Roger Dean Allen, 32, second officer, Palos Verdes; Capt. Fred Rudolph Gray, 50, pilot, Pacific Palisades; Stella Ann Berry, 20, hostess, Los Angeles; E.J. Sullivan, first officer, Inglewood, and Martha Joyce Rush, 23, hostess, Manhattan Beach.

impression of lightness to style and institutional advertising.

"We wished to present this new type family sooner," said Sun Publisher Carl W. Schooss, "but we were unable to do so until the arrival of our battery of new Intertype head and advertising facelighting machines. They are now in operation and are the most modern and complete typesetting machines made. Together with their type, they represent another investment in the community by The Desert Sun of some $65,000," Schooss concluded.

At 8:30, farmers in the area saw an orange glare in the sky. A few thought they heard sounds which resembled thunderclaps. The jet apparently plunged almost straight down, the fuselage smashing into the rough rolling farmland near Unionville, Mo.

Byron Evans, a private pilot, spotted the fuselage from the air and directed the ground party to the scene.

Terry Burnell who lives on a farm near the crash site, said he heard Nakano's moan from the fuselage and pulled him out.

The bodies of the other 36 passengers and the 8 crew members were taken to a Unionville garage, which was turned into a temporary morgue.

Palm Springs' high temperature Tuesday was 97, low 56.

FOR SUPERVISOR POST

George Berkey Endorses Cook

County Supervisor George Berkey, who announced last summer he would seek reelection, has named William W. (Bill) Cook of Palm Desert as his choice for the office.

Berkey's first open endorsement of Cook was made in a letter to George C. Alexander, Blythe accountant, who had asked the incumbent Supervisor for his recommendation. Contents of the letter, dated May 12, were not even known to Cook's campaign committee until early this week, according to Mrs. O. Earl Coffman, chairman of the Bill Cook for Supervisor Committee in Palm Springs.

In reply to Alexander's query, Berkey said:

"Bill Cook will receive my vote. I have known him for 15 years and know this District is fortunate to have a man of his calibre running for the office."

Berkey, a Palm Springs real estate broker, referred to Cook's service as a trustee of College of the Desert and his presidency of Riverside County Farm Bureau as part of a long record of public service and... "indications of his acceptance of civic responsibility."

Cook was in his second term in both of these posts when he resigned to open his campaign for Supervisor.

Berkey stated he had served with Cook on the Board of Directors of Coachella Valley Farmers Association.

"First hand, I learned that he has a keenly analytical mind. He makes decisions after carefully investigating and weighing the facts."

Berkey pointed to the importance of a Supervisor from this District having the support and respect of other members of the Board.

"Possibly the most important of all," Berkey said, "Bill is well and favorably known by other members of the Board of Supervisors."

Oregon Residents to Fete Japanese Ex-Bomber Pilot

HONOLULU (UPI)—Nobuo Fujita, 50, leaves tonight for his second look at Brookings Harbor, Ore., as a guest of the people he tried to kill 20 years ago.

The Japanese businessman was the pilot who made two bombing raids on the Oregon coast in 1942 in his submarine-transported float plane.

He will be the guest of the Brookings Harbor Jaycees and their annual Azalea Festival.

"I am very gratified to these people," the wiry ex-pilot said in halting English "I must commend them for their broadmindedness. I certainly never thought a Japanese would be given such an offer."

The first time the former Kamakazi instructor saw Oregon and the United States was on Sept. 9, 1942. He had been brought by a special plane-carrying submarine from Japan in a long 15-day voyage.

"We surfaced before dawn," he recalled and the plane was brought out of its watertight compartment and launched. I took off with two 200-pound bombs and flew over the heavily wooded coast in bright sunlight. My orders were to drop the bombs where they would start large fires. I saw the bombs explode and saw fires start before I headed out to sea where I was picked up by my submarine."

Twenty days later Fujita made his second bombing raid, this time farther north and at night. His most vivid memory of that hazardous flight was in trying to find the sub after the raid.

"I couldn't see anything on the water," he explained "and after flying around for what seemed hours, I finally spotted an oil slick shining in the moonlight and followed it to where the submarine was lying like a black shadow on the surface."

Fujita said the submarine then headed back to Japan and sank an American submarine and a freighter before ending the patrol.

Search on For Bodies In Air Crash

MUNICH, Germany (UPI)—U.S. and German teams combed a six-mile stretch of Bavarian woodland today for the remaining bodies of 26 Americans killed in a plane crash.

Army officials said 20 bodies were found Tuesday. The U.S. Navy Super Constellation WV2 reconnaissance plane loaded with radar detecting devices disintegrated in flight Tuesday and crashed in flames.

The Navy dispatched a team of investigators to Germany from Rota, Spain, base of the ill-fated plane.

Capt. P. Abrahamsen, a Pan American Airways pilot who was flying a 707 jetliner about eight miles from the crash scene, witnessed the tragedy.

"There's an airplane disintegrating," Abrahamsen radioed the Munich control tower. "I see the tail section now."

Eye witnesses on the ground heard a roar, and saw the tail section had ripped off the fuselage.

Preliminary for Assault Suspect Set on Thursday

A 46-year-old Palm Springs man charged with cutting a fellow card player late Saturday, entered a not guilty plea in Desert Municipal Court here.

Isidro Gonzalo Del Rosario, 232 E. Arenas Road, will receive preliminary hearing Thursday on charges of assault with a deadly weapon. Del Rosario allegedly slashed Paul R. Rangel, 58, 612 Mountain View Drive, after an argument over coaching in a card game. Rangel was treated at Desert Hospital for a slash wound on the left wrist, and released.

General's Son Hurt In Red Raid

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (UPI)—Lt. Col. Frank B. Clay, son of Gen. Lucius D. Clay, President Kennedy's special Berlin adviser, was wounded today in action against Communist Guerrillas.

A U.S. military spokesman said three other Army officers also were wounded in the same action on the Plain of Reeds in Kien Giang Province 75 miles southwest of Saigon.

The spokesman said that an Army master sergeant was wounded in a separate incident when he stepped on a Communist-planted land mine while leading a group of South Vietnamese rangers on a "training exercise" about 20 miles northwest of Saigon. The sergeant's name was not given.

None of the wounded men was reported injured seriously.

Second Close Call

This was the second incident in less than two weeks in which young Clay's life has been endangered in action against the Reds. On May 12, he narrowly escaped death when a bullet fired by a Red guerrilla on the ground crashed through the Plexiglas canopy of his helicopter and came within inches of his head. A U.S. Army crewman that time killed the sniper with a 30 caliber machine gun.

In today's action, the source said Clay, senior adviser to the Vietnamese 7th Division, was hit in the arms and legs by flying fragments of aluminum and Plexiglas as bullets ripped through his helicopter.

But Clay's wounds were not serious and he was released by medics after preliminary treatment, the source said.

Clay's helicopter was reported to have been badly damaged by small arms fire from Viet Cong guerrillas.

The source said three companies of Vietnamese troops were airlifted into battle in waves of five and six helicopters each. Two other Vietnamese companies swept into battle against the Viet Cong on the ground through thickets of lush tropical growth and across rice paddies.

The injuries to Clay and the other Americans came as they started to leave the Plain of Reeds, which has been a Communist Viet Cong stronghold since the days of the Indo-China war eight years ago.

Clay and another U.S. Army adviser had witnessed a sharply fought action in the area and were being airlifted out by helicopter when the craft was hit by automatic weapons fire, the spokesman said.

Council's Weekly Meeting Agenda Will Ease Off

The Palm Springs City Council is preparing to ease up on the weekly meeting agenda it has followed during the winter season.

Last of the weekly sessions is slated next Monday, when the controversial zoning on Section 14—owned by Agua Caliente tribe members—comes before the city legislative body. The Indians indicated that legal action will be filed contesting the city's zoning rights if "reasonable" progress on the delayed zoning is not shown in the Monday meeting.

Next month, the council will hold meetings on the first and third Mondays beginning at 7:30 p.m. The summer 8 p.m. meeting time will be inaugurated in July, when meetings will be switched to the second and fourth Mondays.

The race for the top political prize was matched by an equally indecisive battle in Tuesday's primary runoff between Democratic Rep. Victor Wickersham, 14-year congressional veteran, and state Rep. J.M. Bullard for a congressional nomination.

Wickersham led by 1,266 votes in the unofficial tally and a recount was virtually certain in both races.

None of the candidates would concede.

Now It's Better On the Rancho

By PEYTON CANARY

A "90 per cent improvement" in blow-sand conditions in the Rancho Ramon estates area east of Palm Springs has been reported by members of the homeowners association there — and joint plans for new protection announced.

Carl Lublin, president of the Rancho Ramon Homeowners association, said sand conditions this spring show "90 per cent improvement" over the 1961 spring season. Lublin credited aid of the Coachella Valley Water District and work by housing development owner Jack Meiselman, for the improvement.

Self Help, Too

"And of course we've worked to help ourselves too," Lublin told The Desert Sun.

Lublin and two other association officers met with Lowell Weeks, manager of the CVWD and Meiselman as they announced further plans for wind protection of growing Outpost area housing community. The group was joined by George Berkey, fourth district county supervisor, who worked with the groups in arranging wind-protection projects. Berkey has arranged for Tamarisk tree slips which Lublin and his association members will plant west of their homes, inside a 200 - foot sudan grass green belt Weeks said is to be replanted.

Seeding Soon

"We'll start seeding as soon as the wind stops," Weeks said. He explained that the CVWD had planted a 150 foot wide strip west of the Rancho Ramon Tract, and installed watering facilities, but winds carried away or buried the seeds.

"Just when they got it in, the worst storm this year hit us," Lublin said.

The water district which cleared sand from yard areas in the Rancho Ramon district and replanted sand-buried trees, has already fronted East Ramon Road with an approximately 1.5 acre rye grass plot. The new planting will extend north of the grass in place.

Trees and Rock

Meiselman has installed palm trees and front yard crushed rock to control sand blow along the street sides of the project, Lublin said.

"Mr. Meiselman has agreed to plant big palm trees and put lights on them," Mrs. Judy Coulton, association secretary reported. Meiselman confirmed that his engineers are working out plans for the big trees and light installations. The association members will maintain the lights after installation.

Mrs. Millie Craver, association treasurer whose home was the site of a bucket brigade which uncovered her back yard from tons of sand last spring, was equally happy.

"I have trees growing again," she beamed.

HIRE MORE SCIENTISTS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The number of scientists and engineers employed in American industry increased by about six percent between January, 1960, and January, 1961, according to the U. S. labor Department. A preliminary report of a survey by the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics and the National Science Foundation showed 850,000 scientists and engineers employed in industries within the scope of the survey during January, 1961. Nearly half worked as chemists.

BUFFER AREA which will be seeded and watered by the Coachella Valley Water District to give green sand buffer for Rancho Ramon homes is examined by Mrs. Millie Craver, homeowners association treasurer; Carl Lublin, president; Jack Meiselman, area developer; Supervisor

George Berkey; Mrs. Judy Coulton, association secretary who was accompanied by son Jimmy; and Lowell Weeks, CVWD manager who arranged planting strip. Area has "90 per cent improvement" over prior year, Lublin reports. (Desert Sun Photo)

Construction Activity In Palm Springs Strong

Strong construction activity in Palm Springs has continued for the previous two months, building department aides emphasized. Through May, with more than $1.296 millions in building permits granted through the first three weeks of the month.

Building inspector Jack Sanders, citing a high volume of commercial building slated this year, has predicted "strong" construction activity during the summer months. Permits during May have run one-third ahead of the totals

VACATION

NEW YORK (UPI) — American Express says its latest travel poll indicates Americans will spend $23.2 billion on their domestic summer vacations this year. Last year, the big travel firm said, the expenditure for vacation hotels, motels, food, transportation, auto upkeep, admission fees and recreation was $22.5 billion.

Compensation Increase Sought by Vet Group

A call for public support of a Congressional bill to increase benefits for disabled veterans has been issued by Samuel D. Arner, senior commander of Palm Springs Chapter 66, Disabled American Veterans.

The bill, D.A.V.-sponsored H. R. 10743 provides 15 per cent increases in compensation for service connected disabilities, to meet increasing living costs, Arner explained. The measure, brought to vote last year, failed after a Senate insurance rider by Sen. Russell Long (D-La.) was attached, Arner said.

D.A.V. National Commander Francis R. Buono polled Senate membership this spring, and received support pledges from 22 of the 100 members, Arner reported. He asked that California Senators Thomas H. Kuchel, Republican, and Clair Engle, Democrat, both be contacted by supporters of the measure.

Arner's statement, a Memorial Day call for support, asked that Congress take the needed funds from foreign aid allocations if necessary. Current benefits provide less than Congressionally set minimum wage rates for some totally disabled veterans.

Emmy Award Winners Revealed

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Broadway captured television's four top acting awards Tuesday night at the 14th annual Emmy ceremonies with seasoned theater veterans E. G. Marshall, Shirley Booth, Julie Harris and Peter Falk winning performing statuettes.

Miss Booth was voted the best actress Emmy for her weekly portrayal in "Hazel," the busy-body, big-hearted maid.

Marshall, playing a battling defense attorney in "The Defenders," walked off with the best actor in a series award. His show won three other Emmys, including best dramatic show of the year.

Julie Cries

Audiences in Hollywood, New York and Washington, in addition to viewers of the nationally telecast program, saw Miss Harris break into tears when she accepted her award as best actress in a single performance for "Victoria Regina."

Falk, in the role of a tough but sentimental truck driver, was voted best actor in a single performance for "The Price of Tomatoes."

Members of the 6,000-member National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences voted a "prestige award" to Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy for her part as hostess in a tour of the White House.

Moore, Finally

The presentation was made by Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas. It was accepted by Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson who said, "I know how pleased and surprised Mrs. Kennedy will be. It is her feeling the White House belongs to all peoples of America."

"Program of the Year" award was given to the producers of "Victoria Regina."

Satirist Bob Newhart's show, cancelled after only a year on the air, won the best comedy program award and Garry Moore, discovered his lucky number was seven when he won best variety show Emmy after six unsuccessful attempts for the prize.

David Brinkley, was the recipient of two awards for his "Brinkley's Journal" and shared honors with fellow newsman Chet Huntley for their "Huntley-Brinkley Report."

Itching Poodle Noodles Now Getting Hot Air

HALF DAY, Ill. (UPI) — Now they're giving the air — hot — to poodle noodles itching for something better than towel drying on grooming day.

The doggies wanting their mops dried the advanced human way just scamper onto a chair and sit still for a spell after a hair dryer's lowered over their noggin's.

A champion poodle called "Snowdrift" pre-tested the human type appliance for his fellow canines. It was plugged into a clothes dryer.

The test occurred when Mrs. Evelyn Tischer, owner of Collar and Leash Kennels, Half Day, Ill., converted her own dryer (Norge) as a time-saving device in bathing the snow-white Snowdrift.

She saved an hour's time and Snowdrift seemed pleased.

SUPERTOYMARKETS

NEW YORK (UPI)—Supermarkets, of all places, are capturing larger and larger chunks of the nation's toy business.

Of the $1.7 billion worth of toys purchased in 1961, $73 million were sold in supermarkets, according to Retail Memo, a weekly digest of retail forecasts.

PALM DESERT

Business Meeting Sets Stage for Installation

PALM DESERT — The Bow-wow's will host a gala event in the garden of the Ralph Hale home, on Saturday evening. A buffet is being catered by Peggy Sanford; there will be music by the Villagers; and dancing under the full moon (assisted by Oriental lanterns). The proceeds will help maintain the Shelter of the Desert Humane Society (located in Indio). Reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Tom Brown or Mrs. Ralph Hale. Others on the hard working committee are the Mmes: John Moran, Hal Kapp, Charles Larabee, Frank Snyder and Harold Jensen. They appreciate the support given to this worthy cause.

Velma McCall, recovering from her successful chairmanship of the large P.E.O. convention, hosted her Palm Desert Woman's Club Board and the new president, Mrs. Phillip McCall, and her Board, with a delicious "dessert and a little business" on Monday, preparatory to the installation of officers on Thursday.

The Youth Group from the Community Church (Junior High and Senior High ages) enjoyed an evening of fun, games, and good food at the home of young Ralph Hale. There was croquet, ping-pong, badminton, volleyball, and swimming for the 60 children attending. Many parents came to enjoy the evening, also.

A delightful bridge-luncheon was hosted by Mrs. P. W. Seals and Mrs. Ralph Hale in the Diplomat Room of the Indian Wells Hotel.

The Hal Kapps drove into Los Angeles to attend the "Song of Norway" with Hal's sister and her husband, the Donald Allton's from Encino.

The Luau may be over but guests will not forget the beautiful hula skirt worn by Hilma Lawrence at the Shadow Mountain Club party last week. Made of the best 20 Karat Coachella Valley carrots and their lacy tops, it was the most original costume of the evening. The only trouble was, according to Hilma, that the guests ate the skirt away, leaving only the leaves.

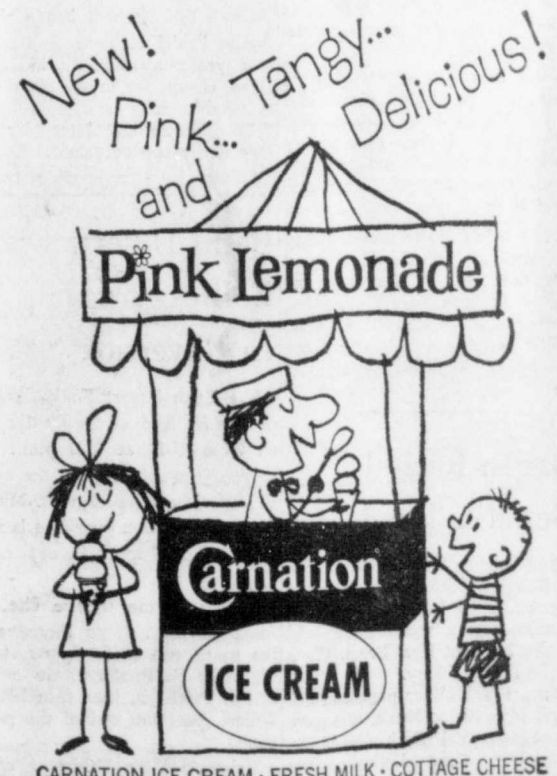

General Robert Scott was part of the fraternity group that spent a pleasant weekend in Palm Desert, staying at the Firecliff. Members did a switch and presented him with his tenth book, "A Hole in the Sky" inscribed with all of their names. General Scott, you remember, wrote "God Is My Copilot." He is the head of a Canadian Insurance Co., and his fees from lectures are donated to boys working their way through the University of Arizona.

Other interesting guests at Fire Cliff Lodge were Henry Ford II who was here for the Automobile Dealers Convention, and presented the trophies and awards for their golf tournament at the final dinner. Then there was the Arthur Murray group who spent the weekend sunning and twisting (they also did many other kinds of dancing during the fun evenings).

Hilma Lawrence was interviewed for the Tom Frandsen Show, and spoke about Palm Desert, the Shadow Mt. Club, Indian Wells, Eldorado, the Eldorado Polo Club, College of the Desert, homes in the area, and interesting people in the area.

The Childrens Home Society will hold their annual luncheon for members and associate members at the home of Mrs. Tom Brown, next week.

TWO KINDS OF STYLES marked the Concours d'Elegance held at the Biltmore, vintage cars and filmy frocks with para-sols to match, and the pretty models attracted as much attention as the cars.

COSTUMES TO MATCH

Vintage Cars in Concours

By MIKE HAMILTON

Everything from a 1936 Erskine to an $18,000 Ferrari was on display at the Concours d'Elegance at the Biltmore Hotel. Mayor Frank Bogert and Councilman Ted McKinney of Palm Springs as judges, were under cars, in cars and around cars. Pretty models, 10 of them, were showing filmy frocks with parasols to match and Jody Reynolds and his band played for a "Twist" contest which was won by, of all things, a father and daughter.

Practicing togetherness were Al-fred Ucci, owner of the Plush Horse Inn at Redondo Beach, and his daughter, Michele. These two did some "Twist" variations never seen in Palm Springs before, and were awarded a trophy by Irene Edwards, fashion designer who staged the luncheon style show.

Winners of trophies in the Concours d'Elegance were John and Gussie Young of Desert Hot Springs, who won in Class A with their 1937 Rolls Royce. The $18,000 Ferrari won in Class C1 for owner W. H. Vincent, of Los Angeles and William McLean of Palm Springs took home trophies, one for his extremely neat Porsche (he even washed the under side of the car, certified by Ted McKinney who looked) in Class C2 and one for his Dunes Buggy. Jack Howell won in Class E with a beautifully classic Mercedes Benz 1932. In the vintage car class Jack Dernberger won with a 1926 Erskine touring sedan.

JERALDINE BRENDA SALE, daughter of Mrs. Marvin Sale and the late Mr. Sale, will be the June bride of Eugene Lukianov.

Garden Club Holds Last Meeting Until October

May flowers continue to bloom, but Palm Springs Garden Club held its last meeting until next fall, when it met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bennett, with 45 members present.

Mrs. Jerry Bunker conducted the meeting and then presented the new president, Mrs. Glenn Watson, who, in turn, introduced other board members: Roy Hitchcock, 1st vice president; Mrs. Walter Davis, recording secretary; Mrs. Daniel McDavid, corresponding secretary; Harold Johnson, treasurer; Miss Gladys McClure, librarian; and Mrs. Bunker and Crwin Spencer, board members.

The hostess, Mrs. Bennett, spoke interestingly on the topic "Flowers That Bloom in May."

Following the meeting, refreshments were served in the patio by cock and Miss Head.

OESTA Club Meets Thursday

The OESTA Social Club will meet at the Town and Country restaurant tomorrow for a luncheon-card party and a business meeting.

Ethel Fruitman, president of the group, will preside at the meeting, with Frances Hanley acting as hostess and Mary Hopkins in charge of luncheon tickets. For reservations call Ethel Fruitman.

When a recipe says to whip evaporated milk, you'll find it simple to do if the undiluted milk is properly chilled and you use this method: first, measure amount of evaporated milk called for in recipe and chill in ice cube tray until partially frozen. Turn into a bowl and whip until stiff. Add lemon juice (if called for) and whip to blend. You'll find the evaporated milk has tripled in volume and will blend smoothly with the other ingredients.

Daughter's Engagement Announced

The engagement of Miss Jeraldine Brenda Sale, daughter of Mrs. Marvin DeWitt Sale of Palm Springs and the late Mr. Sale, to Eugene Lukianov, son of Mrs. Eugene Lukianov of Los Angeles, has been announced by the bride-elect's mother.

Miss Sale was graduated from Palm Springs High School and Santa Monica City College. Her fiancé attended Santa Monica City College and the University of California at Los Angeles. The couple plan to be married June 23.

Miss Sale's father was an early developer of Palm Springs and was prominent in the civic and social activities here, where her mother still maintains her home. Her fiancé is a Senior Designer for Space Technology Laboratories.

Brides Choose Gowns That Can Be Adapted

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—The wedding dress, once destined for storage in the closet and in memory after the Big Day, today goes right on being part of the bride's everyday wardrobe.

Convertibles which began showing in bridal fashions as long as five years ago finally have arrived. Gowns for brides come with removable long skirts to make them appropriate later for informal dressup occasions.

Others have removable trains,

Palm Desert Follies Are In Reversal

The Palm Desert Follies, scheduled to be held at the theatre site on June 14-16 at 7:30 p.m., are currently in rehearsal at the home of Miquela on Peppergrass. Miquela announces that everyone is welcome to participate in any capacity.

To get to the theatre site, go south on Hwy. 74 to Pitahaya at the south end of Sandpiper, turning right on Pitahaya. Go to the end of Pitahaya, then turn left on Willow, past the end of the pavement.

Tickets for the Follies, a popular yearly event, may be obtained from members of the Palm Desert Players.

jackets, panels and even trimming. The same double-duty design goes for bridesmaids' dresses. Typical of these are dresses which have petal overskirts removable later to create a sheath, or with small, shrug jackets which when removed make the gown appropriate for the dance floor.

Shapes Change
Shapes of wedding dresses also have changed—they have a sleeker look. The outstanding silhouettes are the bell and pyramid shapes, the latter combining controlled skirts with bouffant backs.

Sheath gowns, usually with removable skirts and trains, also are popular—and designers credit this shape to the influence of Mrs. John F. Kennedy's preference in evening clothes.

The pared-down bridal gowns means elimination of hoops; instead, bell-shaped petticoats built out in the back are used.

Fabrics Vary
Fabrics range from the traditional peau de soie through pique cotton lace and, up and coming, linen.

White still is the number one color for the bride, and "Modern Bride" magazine reports that a new trend in summertime weddings is to the all-white, with the bridesmaids wearing it touched with contrasting color only in a sash or in embroidery.

Headress fashions also have changed gradually, with a lot of brides this summer planning a triangle of lace or dress fabric worn babushka-style, matching pillbox with briefest veil, or mantillas made of imported lace.

Club Hears Dutchwoman

The concluding luncheon meeting of the Palm Desert Woman's Club held at the Shadow Mountain Club was a delightful affair in which Mrs. Roy McCall relinquished her leadership to Mrs. Philip McClay, with Mrs. H.C. Carpenter as installing officer.

The meeting opened with the Palm Desert Girl Scout Troop No. 402 in colorful and authentic costumes, doing the native dances of Germany, Japan, Spain, Italy, and Denmark.

Guests were welcomed and the hosts of the day, Mrs. Telford Thomson, and her assistants the Mmes. C. M. Cady, C. J. Fenton, Ludlow Flower, and H. H. Willson were introduced and thanked along with Mrs. R. L. Coates and her committee, who made the luncheon gay with their ingenious decorations.

After thanking her officers and chairwomen for their support and cooperation throughout the year, Mrs. Roy McCall, retiring president, introduced another past president, and installing officer, Mrs. H. C. Carpenter.

Mrs. Carpenter, used "Birds of A Feather Flock Together" as her theme, and presented Mrs. McClay with a peacock feather to wear in her hair (club members being as proud as peacocks of her). A feather boa, a little "tattered and torn coming from shoulders carrying a heavy load" was presented to incoming president Mrs. Philip McClay. First vice president Mrs. C. M. Kincaide and 2nd vice president Mrs. John Vae received thinking caps for "heads so wise, like the owls"; a graceful plumed pen for recording secretary, Mrs. Fred Siemen and a gay feather duster for Mrs. Doane Elliott who as treasurer will "dust into the coffers all monies". Mrs. Carl Jensen, as corresponding secretary, was presented with a quill pen, and the directors, the Mmes. William Morse, Harold Jensen, and L. W. Thompson, were given different colored feathers for each one's "cap".

Mrs. L. W. Thompson welcomed Mrs. McClay into the small circle known as "The Past Presidents of the Palm Desert Woman's Club". Mrs. Jay F. Price, retiring 1st vice president, introduced Mrs. John Botsford, who presented Mrs. McClay with a gift from the board.

Mrs. Randall Henderson, retiring program chairman, then introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Sylvia Earle a goodwill ambassador with the Royal Dutch Airlines, K.L.M. who had just jetted in from New York City.

Mrs. Earle said that there is much more to Holland than is cheese, diamonds, windmills and Delft. For instance there are the magnificent ancient castles with six foot walls and moats, that boast inner spring mattresses, central heting, and Continental breakfasts for only five dollars a night. Then there is the Exhibition Center of Arts and Crafts in the little city of Delft where hand cast silver objects and famous pictures cast into silver miniatures are to be found. In this delightful city of tiny bridges, numerous canals, old markets, and antique shops a fascinating Antique Exhibition is held each August in an old castle.

In other parts of Holland, a land the size of Connecticut, Rhode Island and Massachusetts combined, there are the Guilds of Woodcarvers and in the Catholic south, beautiful religious art objects, and exquisite things done in enamel. Silver casting is one of their oldest arts, dating back to 1400 A.D., and many of the designs are done under a magnifying glass.

Mrs. Earle stated that the United States is a hard country to understand for those who have never been here. Unfortunately the real American people get lost in unpleasant movies, too frank articles, too many unsightly words and pictures, and too much dirty linen aired. She suggested visiting Americans act as good-will ambassadors abroad.

Inside Outer Mongolia

One of the newest members of the United Nations, Outer Mongolia (above) lies between the Soviet Union and Red China.

An Outer Mongolian medical team visits an isolated herdsman living on the windswept steppes. Owing to the level, hard-packed terrain, both large and small aircraft can land anywhere on the extensive flatlands.

An Outer Mongolian mother uses a Western-style sewing machine while the father chats with his children. Tent's wooden floor, covered with carpeting, helps to keep it warm. Pictures of Lenin and Stalin hang above chest.

NO LONGER a land shrouded in mystery, Outer Mongolia has emerged from centuries of isolation to take its place in the world community. One of the newest members of the United Nations, the country is roughly the size of Western Europe. A Communist state, built along Soviet lines, it lies wedged between the two giants of the Communist world, Russia on the north and Red China on the south. Its population of a million people lies scattered over the wild plateaus, mountains and grasslands of the vast country. The land is rich in natural resources, including oil.

While the majority of the people live in primitive, igloo-shaped tents called gers (or yurts), the capital city of Ulan Bator is modern to a great degree. New apartment houses dot tree-lined boulevards. Russian-built buses move about the city's streets. Government buildings, hospitals, sports arenas and a large university are located here.

These exclusive pictures of Outer Mongolia show the great strides the ancient country has made since the Mongolians declared their independence from China in 1921. A nation whose borders were once sealed off by fear, Outer Mongolia today is inviting tourists to travel through the country and see the land from which Genghis Khan and his fierce horsemen once ruled a sprawling empire.

Technicians from Russia and Red China help install equipment in building materials factory in Ulan Bator.

A modern, bustling city rising in the middle of the wild terrain, Ulan Bator was laid out by Russian engineers. Here, traffic moves along Peace Street, a broad avenue lined with apartment houses and ornate street lamps.

Archery is popular pastime in Outer Mongolia. Weapons are similar to those used in Mongol age of conquest.

Livestock raising is still the principal source of income. Government veterinarians examine sheep in the pasture.

W&FA Holds Final Meeting But Continue Rummage Sales

Members of Welfare & Friendly Aid Association held their final meeting until next fall, winding up many of their year's activities, when they met at the Youth Center.

As has been the custom in the past, the organization's "Little House" will remain open this summer, continuing its operation of rummage sales at the local Health Center on Tuesdays. As always a stand-by committee will remain on active status to take care of any emergency occurring during the summer.

The group will begin its work next fall under the guidance of Mrs. William Foster, who has succeeded Mrs. Charles Baldwin as chairman of the board. Working with her will be Mrs. Sydney Noles, 1st vice chairman; Mrs. Charles Sakin, 2nd vice chairman; Mrs. Berton Lamb, recording secretary; Mrs. Irwin Schuman, corresponding secretary; and Pat Mutascio, treasurer. Mrs. Chester Doley, Mrs. James Hicks, Mrs. George Ripley, Mrs. Con Maffie and Mrs. Baldwin compose the board of directors.

The following new members have been welcomed into the organization: Meses. Ross Dille, James Hardin, Michael Heathman, Gordon Krysan, Thomas McKenzie, Nicole Mutascio, Pat Mutascio, Larry Sitter, Daniel Wagner and Harold West.

Toastmistress Competes With Toastmasters—Wins

Toastmistress and Toastmaster clubs held a joint meeting at Laurie's Steak Ranch, with their respective husbands and wives as guests.

Frank Wiskowski, Toastmaster president, made the welcoming speech, with Dorothy LeMasters, Toastmistress president, responding.

Toastmistress' two speakers won the two silver cups of honor Susan Hubbard's speech was on "Mental Attitudes," using a card to demonstrate the varying results of different ways of thinking. Dorothy LeMasters won in Topics, speaking on the subject, "Our Government Policy on Foreign Aid," a topic assigned by Toastmaster of the evening, Bob Ralph.

Marian Potts, as Topic Mistress, gave Toastmasters the subject of "Light Industry in Palm Springs," which brought forth the pros and cons of an interesting subject. The two speakers for Toastmasters were Bob Holland and Bill Scarlet. Holland used summer sales and women shoppers, with zestful exaggeration. Scarlet's topic was "Water" dealing with the way water is formed on the Pacific Islands.

Fred Nitchy, Toastmaster for the evening, introduced all the speakers. Fesse Stern was evaluator for the Toastmistress talks, and Mrs. Claude Yerkes for the Toastmasters.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A friend and colleague of mine in the newspaper trade has written a book which I predict will bring him great riches.

The official publication date is still two weeks away, and already the book has been denounced.

A denouncement of a book has long been recognized as a sure-fire sales stimulant, but few authors are fortunate enough to have their works castigated even before they are formally published.

I therefore offer congratulations to A. Robert Smith, correspondent for several Oregon newspapers, who has put together a biography of Sen. Wayne Morse titled "The Tiger in the Senate."

Smith's book was pounced on by not less than the Tiger himself, who rose on the floor of the Senate this week to complain that it contained untruths, half-truths and out-of-context distortions.

Didn't Relish Comment

I don't suppose that Smith, who values his reputation as a reporter, particularly relished that sort of comment.

In reply to the Morse blast, he said the book, while "not without criticism," was non-partisan and gave the senator "far more credit for valuable public service than any of his political enemies will ever grant him."

I can understand why Smith, as a journalist, wouldn't like to have his objectivity questioned. But as an author, he is to be envied. Many authors are unable to get denounced at all.

As evidence of this, I can cite my own experience last fall when the literary world was enriched by a book of mine, the title of which has been carefully concealed from all but a few close friends.

I went around to just about everybody I knew trying to get them to denounce it, but to no avail.

Couldn't Get Book Denounced

"This is the most innocuous book since 'The Five Little Peppers,'" one of them told me. "I'd look pretty silly denouncing it."

"Couldn't you just suggest that it be kept out of the hands of Camp Fire girls or something?" I begged.

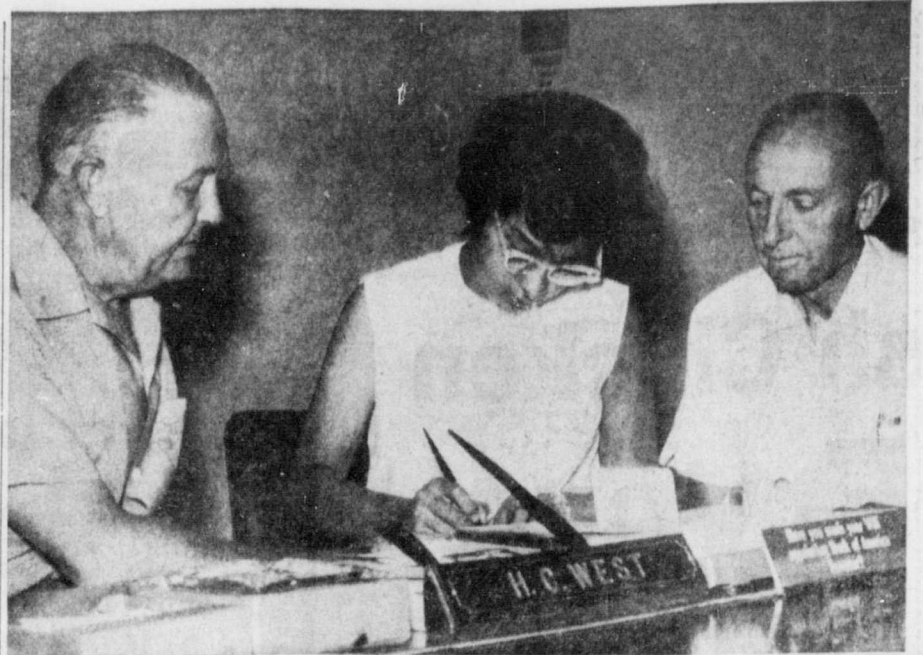

"I doubt you could get this book banned from a Tibetan monastery," he replied.

I finally persuaded my wife to issue a statement saying the book was unsuitable for children under nine months old. But it received no circulation other than the copies we left in mailboxes around the neighborhood.

Now along comes Bob Smith and, entirely without solicitation, has his book denounced by a senator. Some guys get all the breaks.

Near modern hotels along Copacabana Beach, worshippers assemble for ritual.

Often these dances last for several hours.

THEY DO VOODOO

ANYONE who believes that voodoo is restricted to ancient and darkest Africa would be surprised to see white-clad dancers performing the rite on Rio de Janeiro's famous Copacabana Beach. These dancers were followers of Macumba, Brazil's version of voodoo. The African slaves imported to Brazil to work on plantations during the colonial era brought tribal customs with them. Macumba is an outgrowth of one.

ON RED REFUGEES

See Hopeless Situation

EDITOR'S NOTE—What can the free world do to help refugees from Red China? Where can they go? Thousands already have fled through Hong Kong and thousands more want to follow, but the overcrowded British crown colony has sealed its border. This dispatch reports on some proposed remedies and the apparent hopelessness of the situation.

By DONALD MAY

WASHINGTON (UPI)—U.S. diplomats said today the problem of providing haven for refugees from Red China "may be too enormous for solution."

Several hundred thousand mainland Chinese are reported ready to flee to the free world.

"But the hard fact is," one administration official said, "there may be no place in the free world for them to go."

The Nationalist government on Formosa offered Monday to take in and try resettle all mainland Chinese fleeing through Hong Kong.

But Formosa already has its own acute land shortage and one of the biggest population explosions in the world — greater than India. Officials do not believe it could accept large numbers of new refugees.

Reds Relax Controls

In recent weeks Communist guards have suddenly stopped enforcing travel controls along Red China's 22-mile border with Hong Kong. Since May 1, 30,000 to 40,000 Chinese have flooded into the British crown colony, already jammed with three million people in 398 square miles.

Because the colony could absorb no more, British officials have sealed the border with barbed wire and have been sending refugees back.

U.S. officials up to President Kennedy himself have been urgently studying whether this country and possibly others could act on humanitarian grounds to help the refugees or somehow turn the situation to political advantage.

One idea has been to increase surplus food aid which the U.S. already supplies through private relief organizations in Hong Kong at a rate of $5 million a year.

May Bring More

"But if you feed 50,000 more Chinese, you may just bring 50,000 more to the door," one official said. "And then you would just have to cut it off someplace. There are a half-million Chinese within walking distance of Hong Kong."

No one knows how many Chinese might want to come out, but refugees in Hong Kong have spoken of hundreds of thousands ready to follow them.

As to making arrangements to resettle refugees to permit the flow through Hong Kong to be increased, the problem is where?

Most free countries in Asia already are overcrowded and many such as Thailand have strong anti-Chinese feeling. Australia has available land, but also has restrictions against Chinese immigration.

The U.S. immigration quota for Chinese is 105 a year. A bill is pending to increase this to 1,000. There is no U.S. refugee law to permit Chinese immigration above the quota, but the President does have power to parole refugees into the country.

Rep. Francis E. Walter, D-Pa., said Monday the Chinese Nationalists could deal "an almost mortal blow" to the Red regime by taking substantial numbers of the refugees. Walter said this could demonstrate the failure of communism.

Walter, chairman of the House immigration subcommittee, said in a House speech this country could help by providing food from surplus U.S. stockpiles. But he said the United States could not take in any appreciable number of refugees.

Al Scharf Tells Reason for GOP Committee Race

NORTH PALM SPRINGS — Albert W. (Al) Scharf, candidate for the Republican County Central Committee, said today that he seeks the office "that I may exercise some influence toward more conservative policies in our government, both local and Federal."

Scharf seeks to become one of four representatives of Supervisorial District 4 to the committee. A real estate investor in North Palm Springs, he is president of the chamber of commerce there. He also serves as senior vice commander of the Palm Springs Chapter of Disabled American Veterans.

A life-long Republican, he was a director of the Palm Springs Republican Assembly in 1961, but did not seek another term of office, since he had decided to run for county supervisor from this district. After announcing his candidacy for that office, he withdrew from the race when the press of business precluded time for campaigning.

Past party activities include his devotion of full time to the campaign for Dwight D. Eisenhower for President in 1952.

A resident of North Palm Springs since 1952, Scharf lives with his wife, Lillian at 17401 Keith St.

MULTIPLY SEVEN BY ONE MILLION and you'll get some idea of the amount of money retailers and other local advertisers invest in daily newspaper advertising EVERY DAY!

These advertisers know that the more than $7 million they invest daily in newspapers* is a wise investment that regularly pays off in buying action at the cash register. Palm Springs, California

ADVENTUROUS YOUTHS find the water startlingly cold despite the bright Sunday Sun as they explore the pool at the foot of Tahquitz Falls. Waters of countless springs and the frosts of following winters have eroded away solid granite to put the falling water back into a flume-like channel from which a chilly mist blows as the falling waters hit the bottom of the canyon. A trip to the falls is a tourist bonus that doesn't cost a cent, though most visitors probably will figure they earned the view in the 45-minute walk required to reach this hidden beauty. There isn't a hint of the scenes awaiting on the hill until after hikers have entered the canyon.

BIG ROCKS and small pools of clear cold water hold the attention of all comers at the base of Tahquitz Falls. Varied greens of sycamore, oak and wild grape vines contrast vividly with the oxide-crusted rock to color a morning made lively by the warmth of a desert sun and the coolness of water rushing from melted snow.

CONTEMPLATION, an activity usually foreign to youth, fits the picture here as this young man measures the quiet beauty of the small rockbound pool at the base of Tahquitz Falls. This was a Sunday morning, but it's questionable whether this lad's quiet thought could have been improved in church.

New High in Money from Parking

With two months to go in the 1961-62 fiscal year, collections from parking meters in Palm Springs may hit the highest yearly total since they were installed on local streets in March 1949, according to figures released by Shelby Langford, city treasurer.

As of May 1, this year, the total take for 10 months was $34,725. With May collections averaging around $4,000 and June better than $1,000, the previous high, set in the 1960-61 fiscal year of $39,168, may be left behind.

April collections were the highest to date for meters, Langford reported. The total was $7,206 with 639 meters in operation. It topped the previous high month, January, 1959, of $7,120 by $86.

Since installation of parking meters in March, 1949, total collections up to May 1, this year, was $373,799.

Sixth Graders Look Over Cramped School

Over 300 sixth graders from the elementary schools of the Palm Springs Unified School District invaded the junior high school campus Tuesday to take a long look at what may be their crowded home for the next two years.

Recommend 4 Projects On Highways

NORTH PALM SPRINGS — The North Palm Springs Chamber of Commerce has recommended four county and state highway projects for the resort desert area near here.

Al Scharf, president of the chamber, announced that the recommendations for the county road system include extension of Dillon Road from Indian Avenue here west to Twentynine Palms highway. Widening of Indian Avenue from San Rafael Road to Garnet is the second county road recommendation.

The chamber recommended as a long-range state project that Dillon Road be taken into the state road system, and improved from Twentynine Palms Road eastward to Desert Center.

The chamber's final request was for survey, design and right of way acquisition for extension of South Palm Canyon Drive, Palm Springs, through Palm Canyon to Highway 74.

Dance Scheduled In D. Hot Springs

DESERT HOT SPRINGS — The Men's Club of the Jewish Community Center here will hold a dance on May 26 in the center, starting at 8 p.m., Ernie Hirshbein, club president, has announced.

Music for the dancing, he said will be provided by the Desert Hot Notes and entertainment and prizes will be featured.

Unless voters approve the school bond election of June 5, which would provide them with extra space and another school, they will be the youngsters who are cheated of their heritage, says Dr. Dwight E. Twist, superintendent of schools.

As they filed down corridors jam packed with 633 seventh and eighth graders, it was easy to see that even with the exodus of the eighth grade, conditions were going to be worse instead of better when they arrive to swell the ranks, Twist said.

They visited classrooms being held in temporary outmoded quarters, listened to a music program in the cafeteria, and immediately realized that the room is far too small to admit seventh and eighth graders at the same time inasmuch as they, as a group, were crowded in the space provided Twist reported.

To sixth graders a junior high campus may look like a big world. It is a big step onward in the halls of learning.

Twist said he feels that if these children are cheated by double sessions and a reduced program, because of the lack of a school, their next two or three years of education may suffer a loss that may never be recovered.

USC to Admit Waldene Smith With Top Honor

Dr. Norman Topping, USC president, has notified the prospective student of the award based upon a high school average of 3.75 or better, almost all A's.

Few students, said Dr. Topping, enter USC with such an outstanding scholastic record.

Market Fluctuations Bring Price Debates

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — The upmost question at this juncture is whether or not the market has seen the lows, according to Joseph E. Granville of E. F. Hutton. The answer, he says, might be that in terms of individual stocks the low has not necessarily been seen but in terms of the Dow-Jones industrial average it very well might have been. It is Granville's belief that it would take a virtual Niagara of selling to penetrate recently established technical barriers.

Investors Research Co. says the important thing to remember is that the market was extremely oversold at the Dow-Jones industrial 640 level — as oversold as it will ever get. The upside potential in common stocks is very great, the downside risk very limited, the service feels.

A. M. Kidder & Co. states that since we are in a highly critical phase technically we should use extreme caution, remain on the sidelines and retain previously recommended gold stocks.

International Statistical Bureau, Inc. in its selected securities guide finds that the internal position of the market has stabilized and is showing signs of some improvement. ISB recommends that those who are underinvested should utilize this period to accumulate desirable securities.

According to Alexander Hamilton Institute, until the market settles down and gives more evidence of forming a base, investors should reduce common stock holdings on rallies and eliminate speculative issues.

TO SETTLE DISPUTES

U.N. Delegate Wants Peacepipe Smoking

By DONALD JOHNSTON
UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—During a heated debate in the United Nations, a delegate remarked that "maybe we should try smoking a peacepipe."

Whether this old tribal practice of settling disputes would work in the U.N. is a moot question but the world organization at least has some peacepipes it could fall back on.

The pipes are gifts sent by tribal groups in Africa and elsewhere as signs of support and solidarity with the U.N.

They are deposited in the U.N. archives along with tribal masks, small canoes, religious symbols, silk screens, candelabra and other token gifts which flow into the U.N. regularly.

"These gifts have little monetary value, but they are expressions of support, faith and hope in the United Nations by peoples all over the world," said David B. Vaughan, Director of General Services, the department which deals with U.N. property and possessions.

Land Offers
"We have had some offers of land, but these almost always are impractical from our standpoint and must be rejected," he said. "We have private contributions of money coming in all the time, and of course the material donations to headquarters buildings run into tens of thousands of dollars."

Perhaps the most notable gift is the new $6.2 million library. Named for the late Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold, the library was constructed with funds donated by the Ford Foundation.

Many cash gifts are small—$1, $5, or $10, and come unsolicited from average people who merely wish to express their belief in the U.N. Large numbers of Quakers, however, donate 1 per cent of their incomes as a pledge of faith in the United Nations.

This idea of "self-tax" was originated by Mrs. Thorton M. Price, wife of a University of Arizona professor, in 1939.

Last November, Mrs. Wayne Elwood of Palo Alto, Calif., sent a $1,000 check, saying she preferred to give the money to the United Nations rather than spend it on a fallout shelter. A month later, a group of private individuals in Chapel Hill, N.C., sent $1,600 as the first installment of a sum which ultimately will add up to what a fallout shelter would have cost each of them to build. The regular Quaker donations, and other cash gifts are set aside for technical assistance or Children's Fund projects.

The U.N. recently turned down with thanks and regret a parcel of Wisconsin farmland offered by Emil Matalak, a 32-year-old bachelor who thinks greed causes many world problems.

"We certainly appreciated his generosity and spirit," Vaughan said, "but the United Nations just could not use a piece of land in the Wisconsin countryside."

U.N. headquarters is full of gifts, both practical and decorative. Some have been donated by organizations and individuals, such as 178 flowering cherry trees from Mrs. Albert D. Lasker and $50,000 for a plaza fountain pool from school children through the American Association for the U.N.

Most of the gifts have come from governments, however, ranging from furnishings for a whole conference room from Britain to an "unbreakable" olive wood gavel from Tunisia for the President of the General Assembly.

Djilas Is Sent Back To Prison

By PHIL NEWSOM

UPI Foreign News Analyst
In a courtroom located in an old three-story building beside a church in Communist Belgrade, a handsome, graying man with burning eyes played out a familiar role.

For Milovan Djilas, convicted of revealing government secrets, conviction meant that he would spend another nine years of his life in prison.

Djilas is Yugoslav communism's great dissenter. His written criticisms of Yugoslav and Soviet communism have made him a more familiar figure to the West than when he served as Marshal Tito's closest friend and vice president of Yugoslavia.

The charges which brought about his one-day trial and conviction, were described only in the vaguest terms but they sprang from his new book, "Conversations with Stalin."

Cold War Instrument
The Yugoslav party newspaper Borba in which Djilas once wrote as a trusted translator of Communist theory, accused him of writing the book "with the intent and purpose of being one of the instruments in the cold war."

For the dedicated Djilas it was an old story.

In 1953 he was regarded as one of the most outstanding of Yugoslavia's young leaders and the most likely heir to Tito.

But in that year also he wrote a series of articles which suggested that the Communist party no longer was essential to the final victory of socialism. He had become influenced by Western thought, particularly that of the British Labor party.

For that sin, he was stripped of his government and party positions.

In 1955, he declared that the heavy hand of Communist bureaucracy had halted Yugoslav progress toward democracy. For that he received a year and a half suspended prison sentence.

Then came the greatest defection. In 1956 he wrote: "The revolution in Hungary means the beginning of the end of communism generally."

Back to Prison
A three-year prison sentence followed, but in the very next year came "The New Class" which continued Djilas' indictment of communism and added seven more years to his prison term.

When Yugoslavia released him from Sremska Mitrovica prison in January 1961, he promised to refrain from activities which would bring him into conflict with the nation's law. In April, as result of his new book, he was arrested again under a law passed only a month before.

To a warning that return to prison impended, he is supposed to have replied: "Do what you will. I write what I have to write."

The last eight years of Djilas' life have marked a sharp change in this idealistic man who as a youth served a prison term as a revolutionary and who fought for communism as determinedly as he now criticizes it.

Djilas' sin is that he demands the right to think for himself. In the Communist book, it is a cardinal sin.

Mickey The Mouse Is Called a Rat

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Mickey Mouse won't be on paper cups used by Peruvian school children because he is "regarded as just a rat" in Latin America.

So said an official of the U.S. Food for Peace Program in announcing an American gift of 500,000 specially designed paper cups for use in Peru's school lunch program, which is supported by food for peace grants.

The cups are a gift of the Paper Cup and Container Institute of New York City.

Several designs for the cups including one with the famous Mickey Mouse cartoon character—were sent to Peru for acceptance. But, alas, Mickey was rejected.

The food for peace official said Latin Americans do not regard Mickey as "the fuzzy little creature" that Americans do. "In Latin America, Mickey Mouse is regarded as just a rat."

The accepted design for the cups features maps of the United States and Peru with a connecting "pipeline," U.S. and Peruvian flags and the emblem of the Alliance for Progress.

You Have an Important Date June 5

You have a date in less than two weeks from today — don't forget it. On June 5, a week from next Tuesday, it will be your privilege — your duty, in fact — to take part in deciding six important propositions and in choosing your county officials from municipal court to supervisor, and in nominating state and national candidates who will be opposed in November.

It is an important date. Five of the propositions have to do with bond issues which, if all succeed, will add $97 million to the state's bonded indebtedness.

The sixth is of much importance to the Desert Empire which specializes in selling the sun. It would extend daylight time another month, through October, and put us in step with the nation's financial, business and governmental capitals in the Eastern time zone and with the Midwest. In those areas that extra hour of daylight is retained throughout the tenth month, covering a full six-month period.

Under the present law in California, we turn back our clocks at the end of September and are one hour off during October. There seems to be no valid argument against extending daylight time another month — Proposition No. 6 should win decisively June 5.

Candidates for seven state offices, a United States Senator, a Congressman from this district, a state assemblyman, judges, school officials and all county offices will be on your ballot in the Desert Empire.

Since nominations officially closed March 31, an important development has occurred in the Democratic Congressional race in this, the 38th District covering Riverside and Imperial Counties.

Congressman D. S. Saund, the incumbent, was stricken with a serious illness. He declares he will be in the campaign, nevertheless, and is confident of re-election.

But, if by some outside chance, he is unable to continue, that leaves only Ray Hiller of Palm Springs in the field for the Democratic nomination to be opposed in November by either Pat Martin, Riverside, Leonard Campbell, Beaumont or Jack Tenney, Banning. And there is a heated battle going on there.

On the county level, most of the incumbent department heads are unopposed but there is a spirited campaign in progress with four opponents seeking to unseat Sheriff Joe Rice.

Closer to home, Desert Empire voters will take part in what is probably the hottest supervisory campaign in years. Seven desert area residents are seeking the Fourth District seat which will be vacated by Supervisor George Berkey, the incumbent who decided he does not wish to continue in that office.

Judge Eugene E. Theriault is unopposed for re-election to the Desert Judicial District bench but Judge Wallace Rouse has two opponents for the other department of the Desert Court.

And to add excitement there are three candidates for the post of marshal.

All in all, with the contests ranging from local, through county and state, to national, it will be an important election.

Remember — You have a date, an important one which will have a direct bearing on your way of life, the direct primary on June 5.

Vote as you please — but vote.

No Waiting to be Shown

It was just about 10 years ago this month when the growing traffic hassle at the Y, where Palm Canyon Drive and Indian Avenue come together, made necessary some action to reduce the dangers of fender-benders and give southbound traffic on Indian Avenue a fair chance to move into the Drive.

After a study, channelization was ordered, a turn or two prohibited and the situation somewhat improved. (There is still a growing need for traffic control signals there, however.)

At that busy traffic confluence no action was taken until the situation was almost out of hand.

In just about one year from now, there will be another intersection in town which will make for as much and probably more, congestion, confusion, and delays than did the Y in its heyday.

But this time it is reassuring to note that the city is planning to act before it happens, not after.

HOLMES ALEXANDER:

Venezuela Story in New Light

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Venezuela, a coalition-with-Communists government under Romulo Betancourt, recently survived a military revolt at Carupano with implications that are not what they seem.

The revolt of a Marine infantry unit now appears to have been something different than what was described by the Betancourt government as a thwarted Communist uprising. Instead of a Good Guy vs. a Bad Guy uprising, this one may have been an internal power grab among Leftist groups, more European or Oriental in style than Western.

Some of the information in this column comes from an expert but suspect source which, I think, may be discounted a little but not disregarded. Venezuela's former strongman, Marcos Perez Jimenez, now in exile at Miami Beach, tells me that the internal evidence is all against this being a Communist uprising put down by a democratic ruler who is master of his house.

Jimenez, overthrown and ousted in 1958 by Betancourt, ran a tough dictatorship in which Reds were imprisoned, exiled, outlawed, and executed, much in the manner that they have been treated in Franco's Spain.

When Betancourt took over, the Reds returned to politics, the universities and the Labor unions. Betancourt, an acknowledged ex-Red who claims to have learned his lesson, began to pack his armed services with political officers from the left-of-center groups. These were the officers who fought briefly at Carupano in what appears to have been a Leftist tussle of leaders, not in any visible way supported by the mobs that feature overt Red take-overs.

Perez Jimenez, who knows a great deal about suppressing Communists, since he successfully did so for ten years, is not impressed with President Betancourt's padlocking of Communist headquarters. "What is kept in such places?" Jimenez demands. "Only pictures of Lenin and Khrushchev. Everybody knows that the Communist documents of any importance are kept in secret places. Such actions taken to put down a Communist revolt are make-believe."

Granting the prejudice of the source, this theory has the appearance of veracity. There is a good deal of additional support for the idea that Betancourt is trying something that has invariably ended in disaster—a political coexistence pact with the Reds. During his 1958 ordeal in Caracas when he and his wife were almost murdered by Communists, Richard Nixon had this conversation with Betancourt's foreign minister, as related in Nixon's current best-seller "Six Crises":

"If your new government," I said, doesn't have the guts and good sense to control a mob like the one at the airport, there will soon be no freedom for anybody in Venezuela . . . Don't you realize the mob is Communist-led . . . ?"

"The foreign minister replied that he agreed with me" (the Nixon book continues). But he went on:

"I hope you won't say that publicly because our government is fearful of doing anything that might embarrass or anger the Venezuelan Communists. They helped us overthrow Perez Jimenez and now we are trying to find a way to work with them."

In December, 1951, Betancourt was signatory on an agreement between his own party, the Accion Democratica, and the Venezuelan Communist party. The togetherness was undertaken for the overthrow of Perez Jimenez's admitted police state, and this was eventually accomplished.

But we are now faced in Venezuela with the consequences. Last winter President Kennedy, riding in an armored car, his route lined with ranks of soldiers and patrolled overhead by helicopters, gave Betancourt a far-reaching gesture of confidence.

Without doubt Mr. Kennedy helped to cement the Betancourt regime in power, and to that degree gave his Administration's blessing to a policy of political coexistence or coalition. It is the same policy which has fallen apart in Laos. Venezuela is much closer to home, and it may serve as an illustration that Castroism is not the only kind of Communism we have to worry about in the Americas.

"CRAZY, MAN, CRAZY!"

THIS SIDE Of The Sun

R. F. "Phat" GRAETTINGER

This is National Highway Week. Proclaimed so by the mayor To let us know that soon we'll drive Along without a prayer.

Of course, President JFK also proclaimed the week but Mayor Frank M. Bogert is right here with us on the desert and a lot closer so I'll tie it on to him.

AFTER A N APPROPRIATE number of whereases, the mayor calls attention to our highway system, among the best right now, but still inadequate and to the action of Congress in providing funds to complete this into the "finest network of highways the world has ever seen."

And he wants everyone of us to pause and ponder the vital role of highway transportation in our way of life.

THE MAYOR has something there. We have good roads right now but they could be and they soon will be a lot better and safer.

He thinks, and so do we, that the great system will go far to reduce the tragic and costly toll our roads are now taking.

In other words, you'll start out on that trip without praying that you'll get back.

RIGHT NOW, while the present highways may be fading into inadequacy because of the great increase in traffic, think of what it used to be and you'll be impressed all the more so by the importance of good roads.

It wasn't too long ago that traffic was bumper to bumper on the narrow two-lane road across the desert and a winding road through the sand dunes from Highway 99 into the city. In those days, when there was more than a heavy dew, you couldn't get in or out. The roads were under water.

SPEAKING OF ROADS, Charles E. Werno of 63-135 16th Avenue, North Hot Springs, tells of a unique highway experience.

"I guess if you live long enough and travel far enough you will have most everything happen to you," he writes. "I am almost 60 years of age and have been in 49 of the 50 states of the Union and in that time I have probably passed a million filling stations."

"This morning they were moving a service station from Ramon Road, Palm Springs, to an intersection in Desert Hot Springs."

HE WENT ON TO SAY that he had to wait quite a while on the railway overpass on North Indian Avenue to let it by.

"As I said, I have passed probably a million service stations in long years of driving — but this was the first service station that ever passed me."

You just have to live and learn. There's always a first time, you know.

The Wall Street Journal says you're an old-timer if you can remember when a nightcap was something you pulled over your head upon retiring.

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN:

Dear Abby . . .

DEAR ABBY: Two weeks ago I invited five girls, with whom I work, to my home for a barbecue supper. They all accepted, and arrived at 6:30 on the dot. I worked hard to prepare everything in advance — with all the trimmings. My house was spotless, and I was looking forward to a lovely evening. One girl bolted her supper, and left at 7, saying she had to play softball with her daughter. Another left at 7:30 to go bowling. The third girl left at 7:45 because she had a date with her fiancé. The other two seemed embarrassed. Knowing they liked to sing, I opened the piano and tried to rescue the evening by playing while they sang. Very red-faced, one said her husband asked her not to stay late, so she left at 8:05, and the other one had to drive her home. My husband said not to let it bother me. Am I overly sensitive? —HURT

DEAR HURT: I have heard of one lemon in an office, but you must work in a grove. Your husband is right. Don't let it bother you. And don't bother to invite them again, either.

DEAR ABBY: I have a five-year-old mule named Bertha. She is a devoted animal and very affectionate. She follows me everywhere, nudges and pushes with her head and slobbers on my clothing. This makes my wife very angry. She says that either Bertha goes, or she does. Bertha is my best mule and brings in $635 a year. What should I do? —MONTANA

DEAR MONTANA: Get rid of Bertha. One mule in the family is enough.

DEAR ABBY: I have looked in every cook book I could lay my hands on and I cannot find a recipe for plain old-fashioned butter-scotch pudding. Doesn't a recipe exist? Don't tell me to make vanilla pudding and substitute brown sugar for white, because I've tried it and it doesn't work. And don't recommend that packaged powder stuff you add milk to. I want the kind my mother used to make from scratch. Can you help me? —CRAVES BUTTERSCOTCH PUDDING

DEAR CRAVES: You need an old-fashioned cook book and I don't have one. If any of my readers has a recipe for butterscotch pudding (made from scratch) please send it to me as I am itching to help my reader. (And I'd like to try it myself.)

DEAR ABBY: What have you got against the cigarette industry anyway. —C. W.

DEAR C. W.: I have nothing against the cigarette industry. But I have plenty against the big-name athletes who tell our young people how "mild," "satisfying," and "refreshing" a cigarette is. I think we should take up a collection for athletic stars who are so hungry for money that, for a few extra bucks, they will encourage young people to smoke, knowing that it undermines their health.

DEAR ABBY: Will you tell me if it is proper to bring an "escort" to a wedding? I am being married soon, and many of my friends have told me that if they can't bring their own "escorts" they are not coming. I have invited about 16 of my girl friends to my wedding and reception and I cannot afford to let them each bring an escort. What should I do? —UPSET BRIDE-TO-BE

DEAR UPSET: An engaged guest may request permission to bring her "intended" to a wedding. But not any old "escort."

How's the world treating you? For a personal, unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to "Abby", care of the paper.

For Abby's booklet, "How To Have A Lovely Wedding," send 50 cents to "Abby", Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

BOB CONSIDINE:

Gen. MacArthur Runs Into Jarring Setbacks

NEW YORK — Gen. MacArthur may be the most illustrious graduate of West Point, as history could well decide. But he has had at least two jarring setbacks in his association with the military academy.

Last year he and his old friend Gen. Courtney Whitney drove up to the Point on the spur of the moment. MacArthur just wanted to see it again. He was browsing through one of its hallowed halls — in mufti — when a young duty officer stopped him.

"Sorry," the officer said. "This is a restricted area. No visitors are permitted."

"I used to go to school here, my name's MacArthur," the general explained. It is believed to have established a new A.A.U. record for understatement.

At the start of his touching farewell to the cadet corps in Washington Hall the other day the general related that as he was leaving the Waldorf that morning, a doorman asked:

"Where are you off to general?"

"I'm going up to West Point," "Oh, you'll like it there, sir," the doorman enthused. It's beautiful."

Adapt at Farewells

The military is traditionally unimaginative, or so we say. It is blunt, hard, concise. But, listen, when it gets around to saying farewell it can do things that brings tears and make the finest performances of Broadway seem like a peep show.

Take the MacArthur ceremonies for example.

It would be hard to find any group that could say "so long" to a faithful servant on a mile-square putting green filled with the cream of America's manhood, while the band played the treasured tunes of an ancient war in which he starred—World War I. Could there be anything more enchanting than the sight of MacArthur reviewing cadets to the tune of K-K-Katie, or Tipperary, played with subtle restraint? The military does it so well.

When Gen. Leslie R. Groves read the citation that went with the presentation of the Sylvanus Thayer award to MacArthur his use of understatement was something that a Broadway producer would have paid dearly for, yet it was perfectly natural and in the best of tradition. In simple declarative sentences he said that the man about to be honored had come to this hallowed reservation in 1899, had set scholastic marks not attained since 1875 (when a cadet named Pershing did real good) and had gone on to certain other things—World War I, World War II, the resuscitation of Japan, Korea. In a few swift words, Gen. Groves spoke a biography that could fill a five-foot shelf.

Like a Champion

MacArthur talked 45 minutes without notes in his valedictory to the corps of cadets. He had been ill the week before. A virus infection had given him a bad fever and weakened him, no laughing matter for a man of 82. But he was determined to get to West Point and survive what seems to a civilian an unduly difficult ritual — the review of troops. He weathered the physical and emotional ordeal like a champion.

When the long day was ended, a retired colonel who reveres MacArthur took me by the lapel and said very firmly:

"Do you realize that this is the man Harry Truman considered incompetent?"

Actually, MacArthur and Truman have a rudimentary respect for each other. Capt. Truman will always regard Gen. MacArthur as something special in the military line. Gen. MacArthur will always regard President Truman as a tough little civilian who had to make — and did make—some of the most rugged decisions in history: Use of the A-bomb, extensive post-war foreign aid, declaration of UN's first war, yes, even the recall of MacArthur himself.

Letters to The Editor

Editor
The Desert Sun,
Dear Sir:

From one of the SUN's subscribers, and steady readers, thanks and congratulations for the timely and pithy editorial in Friday's issue entitled "FREE? YOU PAID FOR THEM," inspired by the bulletin catalogue mailed by our representative in Congress, D. S. Saund.

I found one of these in my mailbox Friday addressed to "BOXHOLDER," and signed as you no doubt noticed, "With Kindest Personal Regards" some thing one usually says to an old and personal friend, not to an anonymous "Boxholder." He should address such communications to P. O. BOXHOLDER, meaning Poor Sap Boxholder. Apparently that is the way some of our elected officials and representatives in Washington think of us.

Anyway, I was so burned up by this list that I decided to answer him, as he suggests by welcoming our opinions.

I am enclosing a copy of my letter to Rep. Saund. Some associates who have been expressing the same opinions and political beliefs as myself, were shown the letter. To my surprise they seemed to think it "pretty strong." Asked if they were in agreement with the letters contents they assured me they were, but were hesitant to put their ideas and opinions in writing. Just why I cannot understand.

If my letter is worthy of attention, you have my permission to print all or part thereof. This in the hope others might be encouraged to do likewise, express their feelings and opinions on the vital issues that affect all of us, to our representatives in Washington.

Perhaps if enough ordinary citizens took positive action, in enough numbers, our influence might make itself felt in Washington.

Yours very truly,
JAY V. CONNETT
Palm Springs

Priest Scores
Hole-in-One at
Indian Wells CC

Monsignor Gallagher, of San Diego, sank a hole-in-one on the No. 4, 158-yard hole at Indian Wells Country Club using a nine iron while playing in the foursome with two other Catholic Priests and a member-resident of the club.

The Good Father, playing with Father Edwards of Palm Desert; Father Tye, of Redlands, and Al Lapierre, of Indian Wells CC, left his three playing partners speechless as his ball sailed straight for the flag, lit several yards short and after several bounces rolled dead to the pin for a hole-in-one shot.

Harmon
Qualifies
For Open

By United Press International
Three guys named Bob—Shields of Quincy, Ill., Zimmerman of Dayton, Ohio, and Goetz of Tulsa, Okla.—topped a field of 452 who passed first-round qualifying tests for the U.S. Open golf championship.

Shields led the more than 2,000 golfers shooting for the 452 berths on Monday when he carded a sizzling 63-66-129 at Springfield, Ill., while Zimmerman, a 21-year-old pro, shot a 68-65-133 at Cincinnati. Goetz, a frequent performer on the pro tour, moved into the No. 3 spot Tuesday when he shot a 65-69-134 at Indianapolis to pace a field of 84 golfers at four sites who survived the first qualifying round.

Wins In Playoff
Tuesday's play was held at Chicago, Indianapolis, three metropolitan New York sites, and at Denver where Orville J. Moody of Fort Eustis, Va., gained the 15th and final berth when he beat four others in a playoff.

Tuesday's casualties included such well known pros as Dave Marr, winner of the Azalea Open; Herman Barron, Eddie Merrens and Mike Homa. Among those who made the grade were Felice Torza, Tony Holguin, Al Balding, Jim Ferree, Claude Harmon, Shelley Mayfield, Bob Sweeney, Tom Nieporte, Mike Fetchick and Al Brosch.

The 452 survivors now move on to 13 second-round qualifying sites June 4-5. They'll be joined by 45 older pros like Sam Snead, Ben Hogan and Cary Middlecoff in a scramble for 131 starting berths for the tourney proper at Oakmont, Pa., June 14-16.

Nineteen Exempt
A total of 19 others—rounding out a tourney field of 150—were exempt from any qualifying play. This group included the last five winners of the Open—defending champion Gene Littler, Arnold Palmer, Bill Casper Jr., Tommy Bolt and Dick Mayer.

The others in the 19 exempt from all qualifying are Jerry Barber, the PGA champion Bob Goalby, Doug Sanders, Jack Nicklaus, Mike Shouchak, Dow Finsterwald, Doug Ford, Eric Monti, Jacky Cupit, Gardner Dickinson Jr., Gary Player, Billy Maxwell, Gay Brewer and Johnny Pott.

The first qualifying round play was conducted on three different dates. Last Friday nine qualified at Oakland, while on Monday 359 qualified.

The pitch was low, and bounced up over their heads a few feet, coming right back down on top of them. Willie then grounded out to Gilliam. (UPI Telephoto)

Ex-Champion
Claims Bouts
Were Honest

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Former lightweight boxing champion Jimmy Carter said Tuesday all his fights were "on the up and up" and denied any connection with former underworld boxing czar Frankie Carbo.
Carter was a witness before a California State Assembly committee investigating boxing safety regulations as a direct aftermath of the death of Benny Paret following a bout with Emile Griffith. The former lightweight champ said he favored creation of a national boxing commission to stop fighters from boxing in other states when they are on suspension for being knocked out elsewhere.

He said fighters should have at least a one-month suspension after a knockout to recover properly.
Another witness, Art (Golden Boy) Aragon, longtime welterweight contender, suggested no youth be permitted to fight professionally until the age of 20.

Carter was questioned closely about his ring career by Assemblyman John A. O'Connell, D-San Francisco.
Carter denied Carbo, now under a federal court conviction for trying to gain financial control of another fighter, ever was his manager and said he never had any connection with Carbo.

Carter, now working as a salesman, said he earned "quite a bit of money" as a boxer, but "unfortunately was unable to hold on to it. If I knew what I know now, I would still have it."
Aragon joked with committee chairman Assemblyman Lester A. McMillan, D-Los Angeles, who asked him "what were you champ of?"
"I was just welterweight champ of California," Aragon said. "Didn't I fight you—you look like one of the guys I fought."

DAVISES 5, SF 1

Dodgers Win to Sweep
Series From Giants

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—What a difference a Davis makes—and for the Los Angeles Dodgers who have two Davises it means a difference of two games.

The unrelated Davis boys, Tommy and Willie, again teamed up Tuesday night—Tommy powering his second two-run homer in as many games and Willie singling twice and driving in two runs—to give the Dodgers a 5-1 victory over San Francisco.

The Dodgers swept the two-game series from the Giants, limiting San Francisco to a run in each game, and cutting the Giants' National League lead to 2 1/2 games. They came into town Monday with a 4 1/2 game margin over second-place Los Angeles and St. Louis.

Big Stan Williams provided the Dodgers with their second straight fine pitching job—a performance that would have enabled the talents of either Davis to gain the victory.

Williams gave up a single to leadoff batter Harvey Kuenn to open the game. The next Giant hit was Willie Mays' leadoff double in the sixth, when Chuck Hiller singled to right the Giants had their only run.

However, the opening two San Francisco batters in the ninth lined singles and Dodger manager Walt Alston changed pitchers. Reliever Larry Sherry ended the affair quickly as Jose Pagan hit into a double play and Willie McCovey grounded out.

So Los Angeles was in an exultant mood for the opener of a three game home series with the New York Mets at Chavez Ravine, and San Francisco was a bit more sober as it returned home to take on the Philadelphia Phillies.

Davis' homer came with Willie on base in the sixth inning and broke a 1-1 tie. It cleared the left field fence at the 370 foot mark—just about the same place as Monday night's clout.

Tommy now has 10 home runs and 40 runs batted in. The latter figure is second best in the major leagues, San Francisco's Orlando Cepeda topping everyone with 43.

Despite the importance of any Dodgers-Giant series, neither team thought the results of the two games would be particularly important at this early stage of the season.

Alston wasn't sloughing off the victories, but appeared more concerned with the Dodgers scheduled the next two weeks that includes three doubleheaders.

"Williams and everybody we got will be pitching in the next few days," Alston said, "and I'm glad he looked as good as he did tonight."

Giant pilot Alvin Dark philosophically passed off the losses. "The giants were bound to lose some games," he pointed out. "And the Dodgers are a good club. We're certainly not going to win with only a run a game."

Dark had no argument on that last thought.

Dugout data: Don Drysdale (5-3) will pitch tonight against the Mets against former Dodger Roger Craig. Dark said before the Giants left for home that either Gaylord Perry or Mike McCormick would open against the phillies. Willie Mays hit the dirt three times to get away from Williams fastballs. Mays admitted later he probably would have performed the same task by simply leaning back but added "I'm not going to take any chances. I have to play to tomorrow." However, Dark said Willie could use a rest and will replace him the rest of the week with Felipe Alou.

Tuesday night's crowd of 46,636 ran the Dodgers' 1962 attendance for 21 games to 683,853, more than 200,000 of last year's mark of 453,032 after the same amount of home dates. Stolen bases by Willie Davis and Jim Gilliam ran the Dodger streak of thefts to 15 in a row on the current home stand. Orlando Cepeda opined that even with more distant fences Dodger stadium is a better place for hitters than Candlestick Park, "no wind," he explained.

For Lead in Nevada Tourney

LAS VEGAS (UPI)—Dale Andreason, Garden Grove, and Don Hamblin, Las Vegas, were tied for the lead today in the $5,000 Nevada Open Golf Tournament with first-round 69s as they entered second-round play.

In a two-way tie for third place were defending champion Chuck Rotar of San Bernardino, 35-35-70, and Ralph Boomstick of Glendale, 37-35-70. Rotar led the U.S. Open qualifiers Tuesday in the Los Angeles area matches.

The 34-hole tourney is being played over the Paradise Valley par-72 course.

Future of AFL Looks
Mighty Bleak Indeed

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The future of the American Football League looked bleak, indeed, today in the wake of the failure of the anti-trust suit against the seasoned National League.

So bleak, in fact, that it would appear that some of the men involved must be specifically trying to get rid of their money. How else can one account for some of the statements from American League club owners?

"We have high hopes of breaking even during the 1963 season," says Baron Hilton, owner of the San Diego Chargers.
Hilton claims that his club failed to meet expenses during the 1962 campaign despite the fact that the team's home attendance averaged nearly 30,000 per game, which was near capacity.

And if Hilton can't break even with that attendance, what is going to happen at Oakland today? The Raiders are planning to play in a new, temporary park seating 22,000.

Marv Jensen, who manages the fighting Fullmers from Utah, attended the fight and plans to meet with promoter Harry Levene before heading back home.

Wings Clipped in 12th
By New York Yankees

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Although the Los Angeles Angels had their wings clipped Tuesday night by the New York Yankees, they hope to start another winning streak tonight against the cellar-dwelling Washington Senators.

Ted Bowsfield (1-2) will face the Senators' Pete Burnside (3-3).

It took the world champions 12 innings to finally subdue the Angels, who had blitzed Boston four straight before the Yankees retained their perfect record in Yankee Stadium against the Angelenos.

Catcher Elston Howard hit a sacrifice fly in the 12th inning with the bases full which enabled the Yankees to beat the Angels, 2-1.

The loss was the 10th in a row at Yankee Stadium for the Angels, who have never won a game there.

The Angels were held to one hit by four Yankee pitchers, with starter Whitey Ford going for seven hitless innings before he asked to be removed from the game.

"I developed a pain in my left side beneath the shoulder in the fourth or fifth inning and it was beginning to pain more and more," Ford said.

Ford's ailment was diagnosed as a muscle tear and a closer examination will be made today by club physician Dr. Sydney Gaynor.

Joe Pepitone tripled off Tom Morgan with one-out in the 12th inning and then Roger Maris and Hector Lopez were given intentional walks to set up a play at every base. The fourth intentional walk of the game to Maris set a major league record.

Howard then sent a spiraling fly toward right fielder Lee Thomas which Thomas caught close to the foul line. But Pepitone slid over the plate just inches ahead of Thomas' strong throw.

Ford, Jim Coates, Bud Daley and Bob Turley held the Angels to one single by Bob Rodgers with one out in the ninth inning. Ford gave up Los Angeles' solo run in the first inning on two walks, a stole base by Albie Pearson and Steve Bilko's sacrifice fly.

Bullet Bob Turley, who worked the 12th inning for the Yankees, received credit for his second victory of the season while Morgan was tagged with the loss, his first.

NO-HITTER

Ford's
Flipper
Is Sore

NEW YORK (UPI)—Pitcher Whitey Ford of the New York Yankees today shrugged off his futile flirtation with a no-hit game with the observation, "It isn't worth risking your career to pitch a no-hitter."

The 33-year-old Yankee ace asked to be removed from Tuesday night's 2-1, 12-inning victory over the Los Angeles Angels after he had pitched seven hitless innings. Bob Rodgers collected the Angels' only hit, a single, off Jim Coates in the eighth.

"I developed a pain in my left side beneath the shoulder in the fourth or fifth inning and it was beginning to pain me more and more," Ford explained. "So when I reached the dugout after the seventh I told (manager Ralph) Houk, 'You better get another pitcher in there.'"

Ford's ailment was diagnosed by club physician Dr. Sydney Gaynor as a muscle tear, and further examination will be made today.

"I don't think it's serious," said Ford. "At least I'm not worried as of now."
